

PROVOCATIONS

I wonder what we can see in this picture? - This is a picture of powder blue surgeonfish. There are many, many fish in the sea of different shapes and colours. However all fish have fins instead of arms and legs, and breathe using gills. Their gills allow them to breathe underwater, meaning they never have to go up to the surface to get air. Fish like to eat all sorts of things, including smaller fish and animals, and plants.

I wonder what else we can see in this picture?

I wonder what else we would like to know about fish?

PROVOCATIONS

I wonder what we can see in this picture? - Some fish are very colourful. This is a picture of a blue-girdled angel fish. They live on coral reefs.

I wonder how many different colours and patterns this fish has?

I wonder what else we would like to know about fish colours and patterns?

PROVOCATIONS

I wonder what we can see in this picture? - This is a picture of a clownfish or anemonefish. These fish like to live in anemones. Anemones are animals that look like flowers - all the things that look like petals are actually tentacles that can sting! Scientists don't really know how clownfish don't feel the stings of the anemones but they do know that the anemones help the clownfish by giving them a safe place to hide while the clownfish keeps the anemone clean.

I wonder what else we would like to know about clownfish?

PROVOCATIONS

I wonder what we can see in this picture? - This is a picture of a tuna. Many of us like to eat tuna and they are some of the biggest fish in the ocean. Some even grow as long as 4.5 metres.

I wonder else we would like to know about tuna?

PROVOCATIONS

I wonder what we can see in this picture? - This is a picture a school of trevally. Many fish like to travel in groups of the same types of fish. A group of fish is called a 'school'. Being in a school is good for the fish because it makes them look like a large animal rather than lots of little fish. A larger animal might be more scary to a predator.

I wonder what else we would like to know about how travel in schools?

PROVOCATIONS

I wonder what we can see in this picture? - This is a picture fish eggs.
Most fish lay eggs, although some like to keep the eggs in their stomachs until the eggs hatch. People love to eat eggs!
We also love to eat fish!

I wonder what else we would like to know about fish and fish eggs?